ISSU D'UNE EXPLOITATION HAUTE VALEUR ENVIRONNEMENTALE

OPTIMUS

Originally from Bordeaux, SEMILLON is one of France's most prestigious white grape varieties. It is used to produce great dry white wines with low acidity, great roundness, and beautiful aromas of white flowers (such as acacia). These wines have excellent aging potential.

Appellation : Bordeaux Blanc

Grape variety : 100% Sémillon

Average age of vines: 35 years

Production : 2 400 bottles

Viticulture :

The rows are naturally grassed and the soil is worked underfoot to avoid the use of weedkillers. The vines are pruned using the double Guyot method, depending on the vigor of the vines, to optimize quality. The HVE 3 certification demonstrates our ongoing commitment to adopting practices that are more respectful of the environment and biodiversity.

Harvest :

Semillon is known for revealing its full splendor when fully ripe. Harvesting is carried out mechanically at dawn to take advantage of the morning coolness. Special care is taken to preserve the integrity and quality of the grapes until pressing.

Wine making :

Vinification and aging take place in new French oak barrels (70%) and sandstone amphorae (30%). Regular stirring of the fine lees is carried out until a dry white wine with great roundness, volume, and notes of exotic fruits and white-fleshed fruits is obtained.

With good intensity, the bouquet reveals hints of roasting and a touch of flint, complemented by notes of white peach. Fresh and slightly salty on the palate, the wine is harmonious and thirst-quenching... a great success.

I love the smoky and flinty nuances of the lime and papaya aromas. It is medium-bodied, waxy, and spicy, with textured and savory layers.
